

Ode to Pencil

You are nothing out of the ordinary.
despite your glossy coat,
your emblems,
your significance only exists as an addendum:
free publicity.

Yet you render yourself unique from the world,
by virtue of existing to speak beyond the realms of agency.

In my hands you gain consciousness and depict your own narrative (something I've yet to acquire for myself.)

From the depths of my eyes I see your reflection

Everywhere.

Lingering in the hallway is your shadow

.....

[then]

Your Voice,

taken over that monologue of mine:

= we're two halves of one.

(or so as I wished on a damp Christmas night)

Long division;

Later.

[now]

The canteen serves

Pain au chocolat,

No poisson -

Anymore.

Pick:

Linear or exponential regression to spiral?

Define.

Definitely.

(Not me.)

[Language = powerless.]

only everlasting to me was

The felt phantom I'd imagined.

Sublime

is miniscule hidden underneath a name of grandeur: a façade,

C'est –
Existing in functions, a girl who functions
In the double entendre not intended, in being rule-abiding
A pretence of god,
Ob-subjective sublime // the naked eye can't see.

Déjà vu –
I invent images to project after that figure
In unparalleled greatness,
Approaching infinity –
That is the integral to need.

Tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow is a delayed apology;
to not be heard.

There is no one left to listen.
We thought it'd be right to listen;
I thought you'd be right to listen

Perhaps we shall meet again,
Not by Big Ben or Harvard's yard
but on an arbitrary street,
In the shadow of strangers

by the flowers b(l)ooming there shall be found: {

Deafening echoes of our permanent memory}